About the Seminar

Business, economics and management, are all interconnected fields. While management offers the practical knowledge and skills needed to run and manage the business most effectively and efficiently, economics provides the theoretical framework and tools used to analyse and understand the behaviour of business. With this perspective in view our two days long international seminar aims to bring together the social scientists, academicians, experts, research scholars to exchange their research areas and ideas and discuss about the research findings through a healthy question answer session on each recent issue on the basis of research findings of the researchers.
